REASONS FOR A DEPENDENCY STATUS CHANGE:
Students who are estranged from their parents due to extenuating or unusual circumstances that can be documented by one or more objective third party individuals may qualify to be considered independent for financial aid purposes. To justify a dependency status change, dysfunction or no contact in the relationship between the student and both parents must exist. Dysfunction may be the result of an abusive family environment that endangers student health or safety, abandonment, or other irreconcilable differences within the family.

Per Federal guidelines, the circumstances below are NOT justifiable reasons for a dependency status change:
- You (the student) do not reside with your parents.
- Your parents refuse to pay for college or are financially unable to pay for college.
- Your parents do not claim you as a dependent on their income tax return.
- Your parents are not willing to provide their information on the parent section of the FAFSA or for verification.
- You do not rely on your parents for support, financially or otherwise.
